“HyperMotion technology is a fundamental change to how the FIFA series develops and plays the beautiful game,” said Oliver Bierhoff, FIFA Senior Brand Director. “We’re introducing a fan-first experience with realistic ball physics, multiple camera angles, on-field vision and even an emergency red card system in FIFA 22.” BIG IMPACT. Anywhere in the pitch, from any angle.

Real-life animations and player movements are recreated with unprecedented accuracy in FIFA 22, allowing for greater realism and immersion. TACTIC. Multiple camera angles give new possibilities on the pitch. Real-life match highlights and a fully adjustable view of the field of play can be accessed at the touch of a button and offer players unprecedented vision and clearness of the action in the game. PLAY. Developed alongside the motion-capture data from 22 real-life players, FIFA 22 introduces over 150 new ball and player physics-driven animations, which recreate the real-life feeling of tackling, passing, shooting, and dribbling the ball. A breakthrough in gameplay, over 18,000 on-field animations are included. EVERYDAY PLAY. In addition to new graphics, gameplay improvements, and real-life animations, FIFA 22 introduces several gameplay innovations, including improved passing, movement and ball control. realistic. RED CARD. The emergency red-card system in FIFA 22 will be a help for the ref, keeping players on their toes. A player can receive an extra caution by hitting the ball away from the goal line and the referee will be alerted to the possible penalty. PHYSICS. FIFA 22 introduces the most realistic ball physics of any FIFA game, with an unbelievable number of variables and combinations that cannot be found in any other sports game. For the first time in FIFA, players can feel and see the visible difference as the ball hits the shoulder of a defender, is kicked in the back of the leg, or is deflected and swerve past the goalkeeper. FIFA 22 is being developed at Bionic, EA Sports' studio in Austin, Texas with assistance from EA Canada, the publisher of FIFA. The game will be released in all major platforms on September 23. For a more in-depth look at FIFA 22, watch the FIFA 22 gameplay trailer released in October 2014. "FIFA published and developed by EA Canada under the labels FIFA and EA SPORTS, but also licenses to other developers outside of EA (see below).

The series is about a fictional association football league which includes professional leagues and worldwide club competitions and a popular celebrity association football game. FIFA originated in the arcade with the release of the Famicom version of FIFA International Soccer. From then on, the series has been developed by EA Canada, with an aim to create a video game that captures the game of football (or soccer as FIFA calls it) in an immersive manner. The series includes the Fifa, Pro-Team, Ultimate Team and Club Series, mainly the first two of which have been the focus of the game in recent years. The franchise has shipped more than 90 million copies. This article covers the officially released version of FIFA 22 (June 22, 2018). FIFA 22 brings in more teams, more player licenses, a new way to play and pro teams, and loads of new features. It's powered by the Football engine, which was also used in recent FIFA games. Players can sign their real life team's players, create their own (!) squad, play online, use the ESPN Game Day program and pack the stadium with more than 500 immersive vignettes. FIFA 22 is the best sports game in a long time, which is saying something. There is no better game for the foot. 2010. Focusing on core gameplay, FIFA's biggest change is the introduction of the Football engine, an overhaul of FIFA's game physics and all player animations. "The new Football engine is the biggest thing we've ever done in the game to date," says producer Craig Egebauch. "It's the most advanced physics engine we've ever used in a game, so we've really made the physics of a ball, players, and crowds all look and feel more authentic. We wanted to bring a higher level of fluidity and accuracy to sports games." Some other gameplay overhauls include more realistic player movement, improved ball control, higher-quality visuals and player facial features, better in-game commentary from Owen Gourlay and Teddy Sheringham, and improved goalkeeping.
